Junior Room Storied: Jack and the Bean stalk

I played Rippa Rugby with Atua. My mum and dad took me to rippa rugby. We played and then we had something to eat.

- Layth Pihema

Jack was sad because he needed to sell the cow to get some money. So, he went and then he met an old man. He said, "Are you selling that cow?"

"Yes" said Jack. "I am."

"I will give you these beans. They are magic" said the old man.

When Jack's mother saw the beans, she threw the beans out of the window. They wished there was going to be food in the moment. Jack was hungry so he got out of his bed.

- Jade Gomez

Once upon a time Jack and his mum lived in a poor house. They could make cheese and bread.

Jack and his mother had no money. Jack climbed up the bean stalk and he took the hen.

- Atua Rikiti

Puawai

Welcome to week 6. Puawai students have been working hard on writing. Their aim was to hook their audience in their introductory paragraphs. During the second half of the term we are focusing on Matariki. Technology will be this Friday for years 7 & 8s.

Pip was wandering around the streets until he saw a big building. He stopped and a big happy smile spread across his wondrous face. All of a sudden other big puppies came running past. Pip stopped for a minute to see what they were up to, but they just kept running. Pip followed them. Pip walked in the gates and was amazed with the place. The sign on the building said it was called k9 University.

Te Kahuhero

I was happily walking to school as I saw a big building with a black dog sign on top saying Canine university. That was my new school for the year. I entered my new school as a student in Canine university. As I walked in I had become unbalanced by four taller dogs pushing past me. As I walked through the doors I saw stairs going up to another floor and a sign saying Canine university up on the second floor wall. As I was walking along the hall I was admiring the photos of Ace on the wall as some inspiration to be a hero. As I was admiring his photos I saw this one particular photo. This one photo was of Ace and four dogs in a semi circle.

Tenyle

Pip was walking to the shop to get the milk when he saw a k9 university. It was a school for guide dogs for blind people. He decided to go in. He didn't know there was a school for dogs. He ran with excitement because he wanted to know how to be a guide dog. As he ran to the school other puppies bumped him, he got unbalanced and almost fell over. He got angry but kept his emotions under control.

David

Pip was strolling in the street scavenging for food when he noticed a giant building. He was focused on it, like it was a massive bone. So he slowly walked to the gates, but before he got inside a bunch of other small dogs barged straight past him. He was excited that he was not the only puppy there so he ran to their door. Then a mysterious hand blocked him. He looked up and saw a woman looking over at a measuring stand, he knew what he had to do.
